Directive #7

Welcome back from your summer break! Hope you are rested and ready for the busy season ahead.

Many councils will be holding elections shortly. It is not too early to start asking your members to discern if they are being called to serve on your executive. Personal invitation works so well!

I know some ladies like to hold onto the position they have held for years however, it is good to have new members serve on the executive as they bring new ideas to the table. There is nothing wrong with doing the same old things, but it is also good to try new ones. By trying something new, you could perhaps attract new, younger ladies to join your council.

Next year we will be electing a new diocesan executive at the annual convention. Council past presidents, current and past diocesan executive will receive either a letter or email from me in a few months, regarding the election. Now is the time to start discerning if you are being called to serve at the diocesan level. Also, the regional chairpersons will be discerning if they will serve a second term in their position and/or looking for members to take over the position.

Do not be afraid to put your name forward for your council executive, regional chairperson or diocesan executive. We, the past presidents, are always available and willing to help you.

May our Lady of Good Counsel bless you in all you do.

Angela
